DIRECTIONS to FARMERS and GARDENERS.

AS ſome Springs are much earlier than others, the following Directions ought not to be too literally adhered to in point of Time; but may rather ſerve to point out the order in which things may ſucceed each other; but as to the preciſe time of beginning, the judgment of the Planter muſt be in ſome meaſure regulated by the appearance of the Spring.

The laſt week in April, ſow early peaſe, cabbage, parſnips, parſley, onions, turnips, radiſhes, lettice and muſtard.

However, thoſe mentioned for the laſt week in April, may be put whenever the ſnow is gone, the froſt out of the ground, and the earth ſo dry as not to be muddy, and the others ſucceed in their order.

The firſt week in May, ſow oats, wheat and rye; alſo ſome early Engliſh beans, (and the main crop by the 20th or 21ſt), ſpinage and orice; and by the 20th of May a few hills of cucumbers, and a few early buſh beans.

The middle of May, ſow hemp and flax; and any time between this and the 10th of June will do for potatoes; ſuch as are planted about the firſt of June, are frequently the largeſt, but the earlieſt planted are as commonly the beſt to eat, being drier, in conſequence of their being more thoroughly ripe.

The firſt week in June, plant all ſorts of kidney beans; alſo cucumbers, ſquaſhes and pumpkins.

The 20th of June, ſow buck wheat; this is alſo a good time to ſow in herd graſs, clover, or any ſort of graſs ſeed, which is thought to ſucceed better if ſowed in now with buck wheat, than in the ſpring with oats. Herds-graſs that is ſowed the latter part of June or through the whole of July inſtead of running up, heading out, and ripening as that does which is earlier ſown, ſpends the ſummer in ſpreading into a large bunch, and rooting firmly, by which it not only beares the ſeverity of the winter, but ſends up from each ſeed many more ſtalks the enſuing ſummer. The farmer ſhould be careful to ſow his clover, if poſſible, before the end of July: for it is very apt to be killed with the winter, if not well rooted, and it often happens that crops which come up well, late in the fall, are wholly killed, ſo that a ſingle plant cannot be found the next Summer.—The firſt week in July ſow field turnips—the early Dutch may be ſown as late as the 25th.—The 20th is a good time to ſow winter wheat and rye, as by being ſowed early it will be better rooted to ſtand the ſeverity of the winter, and be more likely to eſcape a blaſt by coming in earlier next ſummer. In the fore part of September, corn ſallad, which may then be cut any time in the winter or Spring when the ſnow is off.

Extract from the Proceedings of the BURLINGTON SOCIETY.

AN approv'd Method to preserve the fine flavour of Butter, and to prevent its Growing rancid.

To a Peck of fine Salt take one ounce of crude Sal ammoniac and two ounces of Salt Petre both finely powdered and mix them intimately with the fine Salt: With this Salt work your Butter, until the Butter Milk is entirely extracted then pack it in Wooden Firkins salting it with the same mixed Salt to such a degree as to be palatable when eat with Bread, and no Salter, this mixture is stronger than fine Salt, of consequence something less is required.

By Order of the Society,

Wm. COX, Sec'ry.

An admirable Ointment for Burns.

Take of nightshade, houseleek, hemlock, and green coleworts, of each two handfuls; of violet-leaves and henbane, of each one handful; bruise all these herbs, and boil them in six pound of fresh butter till they are soft, then press the juice out, and set it over the fire again, and put to it bees-wax 4 ounces; after it is boiled a little, take it off, and put to it salt of lead, half an ounce; stir it well till the salt is dissolved. Cut away the skin, before you lay this to the sore, and it will heal it in twenty-four hours.

For a fresh Strain.

Take of linseed-oil, and rectified spirit of wine, of each two ounces; oil of spike, one ounce; mix, and rub the part very well with it, and lay to it a plaister of paracelsus, with an equal part of Hibernium.
